Within the brief, the client stated that they wanted to transform their existing office into a modern, more collaborative space. The office was to be used by multiple teams who would require a variety of work stations. To accommodate this, we designed a space to include hot desks, a meeting table, and a glass partition meeting room. A high table and stools were included to present a less formal place to work and to also compliment the tea point and provide a place to sit and eat.

The client requested a bright, vibrant colour scheme which is apparent throughout the design. To achieve this, lime green has been used in the carpet, task chairs and desktop screens.
